Dear Earl,

The xeroxes of the pictures I'm sending Goldberg are slighly clearer.

I think they make a case of what I think you mentioned to him.

Thatthe papers could combine to throttle all those generals and admirals is frightening. Nineteen of the signatories were from the U.S., plus two of ours who put it all together. Seventeen were high-ranking Russian retirees, all generals or admirals.

About 14 countries represented.

Of course ~~if~~ I have the pictures but gitting copies of them made as pict ures presents some problems to me.

Many thanks and best to you all,

Harold
